Correcting transcripts and providing responses to questions on notice and supplementary questions

The transcript is an official record of the evidence you and other witnesses provided at a hearing. You have the opportunity to correct errors in the transcript if they are typographical mistakes, misspellings or the duplication or omission of words.

You cannot change or improve the words you actually said during the hearing nor the grammar.

How do I request a correction to the transcript?

If you wish to request a transcript correction, you can either:

- mark your corrections electronically using the 'comments' tool in the PDF of the transcript
- list your corrections to the transcript in a Word document or email, including the page number and paragraph reference
- print the transcript and using a red pen, mark your corrections in the margin with the relevant text underlined (do not cross out the original words) (see example below).

Please note that if we do not receive a response from you by the due date, we will assume there are no transcript corrections to be made.

How can I clarify or amend evidence I provided?

If you wish to clarify or amend any evidence you gave at a hearing, you may do so by writing to the committee. Keep in mind that your written correspondence may also be published, in addition to the committee considering how best to deal with your clarification. In some instances, a committee will consider adding a footnote to a transcript to outline your clarification but it can depend on the circumstances.

If you have any confidentiality concerns, please make this clear in your correspondence.

What if I want to provide additional information after my evidence?

If you want to provide additional information to the evidence you gave at a hearing, you can also put it in writing to the committee. The committee will generally publish this information, to assist with the inquiry, so please let us know if you have any confidentiality concerns.

Providing answers to questions on notice and/or supplementary questions

If you took a question on notice during a hearing, it will be highlighted in yellow on your transcript. Following your appearance, members of the committee may also have additional questions for you to answer – these are referred to as supplementary questions.

If you have any supplementary questions to answer, these will have been sent to you as a separate document.

When providing answers to questions on notice or supplementary questions, you should:

- prepare a separate document for each – this is helpful as the committee will usually publish the documents separately
- write the question and answers clearly
- number your questions and answers
- ensure your answers are provided by the due date
- let us know if you are requesting confidentiality in relation to any of your answers and the reason/s why.

How can I get further information?
